Future Steps.

Due to the complexity and inherent testing that needs to be completed to review the regulation requests at component level, CSI Technologies is not prepared to issue any statement other than the one above that certifies our manufacturing process,

If component level testing is desired, it must be formally requested via email and at that time, estimated completion times and cost for testing will be supplied.

We are dedicated to assuring that the products we provide to you meet all requirements or standards please contact our technical team for any questions regarding this statement
